Application

The functional unit is used for the automated unlocking of closed pressure frames. It can be mounted either on the side profile of the frame or on the pressure frame plate. It features a solenoid valve and other pneumatic components that can be connected directly to the pneumatic control system.

Delivery

The product must be assembled upon delivery. Solenoid valve and other pneumatic components are included.

Note:

When operating the unlocking unit in conjunction with the automatic opener/closer mechanism for vacuum test fixtures, there are potential risks for the operator that must be eliminated by using suitable protective devices to ensure safe operation.

Note:

Customers are fully responsible for the professional installation of the functional unit. INGUN cannot accept any liability for damage resulting from incorrect installation, failure to observe the instructions in the documentation provided or failure to operate the test fixture or in a suitable test environment.
